

PicLicorice

Skincare Tips by Skin Tone

Healthy skin is not one-size-fits-all. Different skin tones can experience concerns like hyperpigmentation, redness, sensitivity, dryness, or sun damage differently. This guide offers gentle skincare tips designed to help support every shade of skin beautifully.

Fair to Light Skin Tones

- Use daily SPF to help reduce sun damage and premature aging.
- Watch for redness and irritation from over-exfoliation.
- Hydrating cleansers and barrier-repair creams help maintain balance.
- Vitamin C and niacinamide may help brighten uneven tone gently.

Medium & Olive Skin Tones

- Hyperpigmentation can linger after breakouts, so avoid picking at skin.
- Chemical exfoliants like lactic acid may help improve texture gradually.
- Use lightweight hydration to support glow without congestion.
- Consistent sunscreen use helps prevent uneven pigmentation.

Tan to Deep Skin Tones

- Dark spots and post-inflammatory hyperpigmentation may appear more easily.
 - Focus on calming inflammation quickly during breakouts.
 - Look for ingredients like azelaic acid, niacinamide, and tranexamic acid.
 - Avoid harsh scrubs that may trigger irritation or discoloration.
-

Reminder: Your skin tone is beautiful exactly as it is. The goal of skincare is support, protection, hydration, and confidence — not perfection.

Educational wellness content for the PicLicorice community.

Always patch test new products and consult a licensed dermatologist for persistent skin concerns.